What is the Potential VAT Advantage for UK Limited Companies?

- Vat is UK's Sales Tax & always Included in Retail Sales
- Registration is not mandatory until after £83,000 sales
- Buyers will not know if registered for vat or not
- Effectively sell at Full Price and Keep additional margin

How does that work & what are the benefits?

- £83k sales = approx £14k worth of VAT (20%)
- If Vat registered, needs to be paid to HMRC
- If not Vat registered, keep funds as additional income
- Cannot reclaim Paid Vat but can legally keep balance
- Nett benefit to business approx £10k

What are the Biggest Issues sellers have expanding using a UK company?

- Why Register a UK company and not use existing LLC?
- VAT*, Compliance, HMRC*, EORI*, accounting etc
- Opening a UK Business Account for collecting payments
- Finding the TIME to deal with everything
- What effect will BREXIT have?

* VAT = Value Added Tax, the UK's Sales Tax

* HMRC = Her Majesty's Revenue & Customs (UK's Tax Authorities)

* EORI = Economic Operator Registration and Identification number

What will be required to start the process using your LLC?

- Register with HMRC
- Obtain EORI number as essential to ship goods to UK
- Register for VAT as mandatory for all non UK companies
- Ensure fully Compliant, VAT returns completed quarterly.

What will be required to start the process using an UK entity?

- Register a UK Limited Company
 - Requires 1 Director / Shareholder
 - UK registered Address
- Open a suitable business account for collecting payments
- Register with HMRC, Obtain EORI number & VAT monitoring
- Ensure fully Compliant.
